

Certificate Course in Fashion Designing

Course Description

Today, the role of fashion illustration in the industry has diminished greatly, since computerized flat sketches are used to translate garment designs for design & production, and photographs are used to convey finished designs to consumers.

Many designers still draw rough fashion sketches to quickly get their ideas on paper, but computerized finished fashion illustrations are more of a novelty art-form.

The course curriculum includes making of croquis (fashion figure templates) in a variety of drawing poses, ideas as well as final fashion illustration drawings. Syllabus includes making of a fashion design portfolio presentation, illustrations, flat sketches, inspirational images, & fabric patterns etc.,

The number of figures, variety of poses, design elements, and how they are positioned can greatly impact the effect of a fashion presentation.
